Homebuyer advice

This report is designed to help you understand current and future developments that could impact your property. Planning applications tell you what has already been submitted for approval in your area and Local Development Plans indicate the Local Authority's strategic vision for future development. Together this gives a picture of how your local area may change.

 Planning Applications

Planning applications

We have identified planning application records at or near the property.

Recommendations

- 1 Information about each identified planning application, along with a link to the full application on the Local Authority website, can be found in the Data Section.
- 2 If nearby planning applications are of particular importance to you, we always recommend visiting the local authority planning portal, so you can see all the applications in your area.

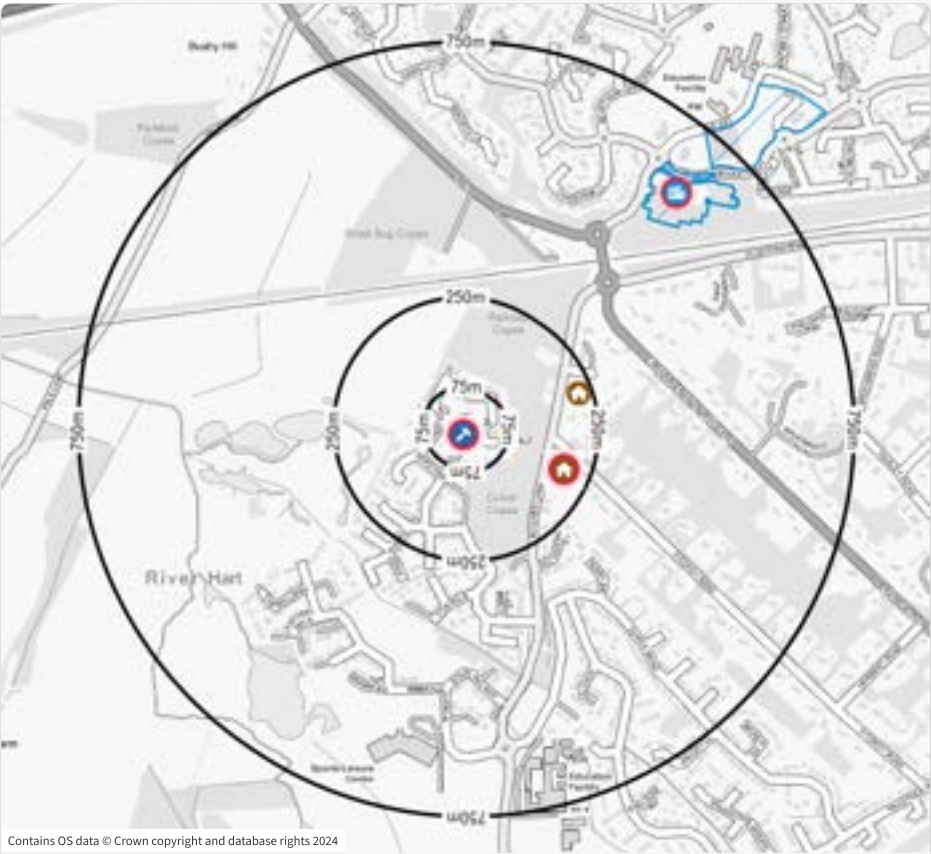

Important note

This report is an overview of the area, and you should further investigate any applications that could affect you or your enjoyment of the property. We do not guarantee that all applications will be shown in this report.

Why we search this

The potential impact of planning applications is subjective. The aim of this report is to flag what types of applications are present in the surrounding area so you can decide whether you need to follow up on the detail and its potential effect on your property.

Local authority planning strategies

Identified

Recommendation

- 1 You can find further information about a policy or designation within the associated development plan. These can be accessed through your Local Planning Authority, and are usually available on their website.

Important note

Land use designations mean the Local Authority would be more receptive to planning applications of this nature, not that there are specific developments already planned.

Why we search this

Local authorities must produce a series of development plans, which outline their desired approach to land use and development for the area. These strategic plans provide an indication of what types of development the local authority might encourage or restrict in the future.

Understanding the development plans for your area can help show how it may change over time. We have provide details of these plans in Understanding local development plans in the Data Appendix.

⊘ Planning constraints

Not Identified ✓

Summary

We have not identified any records of environmental designations, pylons or masts within 250m of the property.

Recommendations

- 1 If you are considering carrying out development on this property, it would be prudent to contact your Local Planning Authority to see if there would be anything impacting this.
- 2 Visit the property to ensure there are no other features which would be of concern.

Important note

The Local Nature Reserves national dataset is "indicative" not "definitive". Definitive information can only be provided by individual local authorities, and you should refer directly to their information for all purposes that require the most up to date and complete dataset.

Why we search this

Some additional factors could have an influence over the property or surrounding area. This includes overhead power lines, or environmental designations such as areas of outstanding natural beauty. Whilst these can generally be considered a positive, they can affect the ability to carry out any development at the property.

How to use your report

We have designed this report for homeowners, or those buying a home. It is intended to be run on a boundary representing the property title. Any features which are present within this boundary are considered to be 'on-site'.

We have split planning information into three sections; Planning applications, Planning constraints and Land use designations. Each of these sections represents a different view of planning and its implications.

We check each project or development against your property boundary. If we find something on-site or nearby, we will display "Identified" on the front page. If we don't find anything we will display "Not identified". We will only describe issues relevant to the property in this report.

There will be maps and data for each individual development or project that has been identified, and based on the data that is relevant to your property, we have provided recommendations using our sophisticated risk models.

Categories where we have found no applications will not be shown in the data section of this report.

Where possible, we will represent larger planning applications as a polygon. Our ability to do this is limited by: the presence or absence of the planning application having been made available online; the availability/accessibility of the plan on the Local Authority website; and Landmark's ability at a point in time to capture the record. Small applications will be represented by a point, although a limited number may be presented as a polygon.

Location accuracy

This shows how confidently we have been able to plot the location on a map using the application details

- Good means the application has sufficient detail to identify the exact site of the application.
- Fair means we have been able to identify an adjacent site e.g. the application address may be 'Land adjacent to No.1'.
- Approx means the address details only identify the road of the application.
- Wider Area means only the general vicinity of the site can be identified.
- Multiple Sites refers to development on more than one site.

Applications are often submitted with imprecise or incomplete address details and because of this the locations we use may not always represent a development site's full extent. We endeavour to position applications in the most appropriate location we can, using the address details available to us. If nearby development is likely to significantly influence your choice to purchase the property we would recommend you use this report as a starting point for more extensive investigations.

Interpreting the planning application table

Each planning application is made up of useful information to help understand what it is for. We include this information in the same layout each time, as below:

- 1 The address of the proposed development
- 2 The ID number shows the application on the map.
- 3 The submission date
- 4 The location in relation to the property and the the location accuracy.
- 5 This indicates the type of work associated with the application, for example 'New Build', 'Refurbishment or Repair' or 'Demolition' etc.
- 6 This is the application number and should be quoted when contacting your local planning department.
- 7 This is the last known decision as made by the planning authority and the site area.
- 8 This provides a description of any extra information about the planning application.

Understanding the data

Planning

We have included planning applications captured by Informa Markets (UK) Ltd within the last 7 years to inform you of current or future developments that could influence your enjoyment and use of the property. We use different search buffers based on the size of the potential development project.

Development in the UK is controlled by the government's planning legislation, which is regulated and enforced by your local authority planning department. Once a planning application request has been submitted and published, it can take up to 6 weeks for us to receive and use in our reports.

If you would like further information about a particular planning application, please contact the relevant planning authority and quote the application reference. Alternatively, you can search for the application within the local authority's online planning database.

Planning constraints

Overhead Transmission Lines are extracted from Ordnance Survey Landline data in MasterMap and only show significant lines; if the pylons and lines are not shown on the mapping then they will not be reported.

We also show the location of any Environmental Constraints that are from datasets recognised as being relevant to Part 2A of the Environmental Protection Act 1990.

Local authority planning strategies

This section provides an overview of the development plan documents that are relevant to your area. It will clarify which documents we have considered to produce the report. This section will also list any additional documents we have not considered; you may wish to investigate these independently.

We have used data obtained from Local Planning Authorities and organised the designations and any related policies into key themes. Each section will show the areas designated on mapping within the development plan and provide details of the document and policy that can be researched for further details.

Some of the information we gather is not mapped as the quality or scale of the source mapping means we are unable to accurately plot these features. These are usually area wide policies or sites captured from general indicative diagrams. These will be shown in the tables as 'Not Mapped'; however we will provide as much information as we can gather.

Some designations may be captured from the mapping within development plans and not have an associated policy. These will be shown with 'No Associated Policy'. We provide as much information as we can gather from the mapping.

You can find further information about a policy or designation within the associated development plan. The 'Summary of Development Plans in Your Area' page will help you find the document you need.

Each section will provide details of the relevant document, policy (if applicable) and map the information was captured from. The policy number will confirm where in the local authority document further detailed information is available. If, following this, you would like further clarification please contact the relevant authority.

Understanding local development plans

Why are we including this information?

Every local authority must publish their development strategies for an area in their local development plans. There will always be a local development plan for your area, even if none of the strategies affect the location of your property. Local planning strategies may affect the type of planning applications that will be approved.

This section provides an overview of your local development plan documents. Any planning strategies that affect your property are detailed separately in the Local authority planning strategies section. If no strategies are detailed, it means that none currently apply to your site.

This section provides an overview of the development plan documents that are relevant to your area. It will clarify which documents we have considered to produce the report. This section will also list any additional documents we have not considered; you may wish to investigate these independently.

Which Development Plans have we searched?

This report will provide details of development plans published by Local Authorities. We capture plans at 'deposit' stage (when a draft plan is submitted for approval) and again when formally adopted. The following documents within the surrounding area have been captured by us.

Plan name	Local authority	Status	Date
Local Plan: Strategy and Sites	Hart District Council	Submission Draft	2018-06-18
Hart District Local Plan (Replacement) 1996-2006	Hart District Council	Adopted	2002-04-23
Hart District Local Plan (Replacement) 1996-2006	Hart District Council	Adopted	2002-04-23
Local Plan: Strategy and Sites	Hart District Council	Submission Draft	2018-06-18

We will report information taken from maps within these documents if policies and designations are found within the search distances we have used for each section.

Each development plan will also contain detailed explanations of various policies and proposals for the area, some of which are likely to be unmapped and so will not be included in this report.

Other Documents in your Area

Alongside the main development plans we summarise there can be other documents that have been published that may also be relevant to your area. This may also include plans that are still being prepared, or that have very recently been published, and therefore have not yet been considered by us.

If a document appears on this list it does not necessarily mean that your property is directly affected by the plan, but that your property is considered to be within the area the document covers. These could be documents such as area wide strategic plans or guidance statements. You may wish to research these documents independently.

We will categorise any plans found as 'recent' or older'.

Recent plans are considered to be documents published since an update to planning legislation in 2004, which meant local authorities changed the way they prepare development plans.

Older plans are published prior to 2004, or prepared under the pre-2004 approach and then published at a later date. The local authority will be in the process of replacing these plans with newer documents, but even where later plans are available some policies and designations from within the below plans may be 'saved' and still relevant.

Where can you find these plans?

A local authority will usually publish development plans on their website. The planning policy sections of the relevant local authority websites are listed below. If a plan is not available here you may be able to obtain a copy by contacting the relevant local authority.

Heritage and open environment

The tables below provide information about the policies and designations within your area that relate to Heritage and the Open environment. For example, this could include conservation areas, the Green Belt and Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB's). Specially designated heritage areas, or areas with heritage polices, can sometimes have associated development restrictions or conditions. There can also be restrictions to development if you live near a site with an environmental designation. These restrictions can be of value to residents as they often aim to enhance and preserve the character of the area. However, if you are planning to alter or develop your property in the future it would be prudent to check any impacts.

Other sites and Boundaries

The tables below provide information about the policies and designations within your area that relate to 'Other' sites. For example, this could include mixed usage sites and military installations.

This section also provides details of any designations in your area we have captured as 'boundaries'. These are designations indicating the limits of a particular defined area. For example, a settlement boundary will generally show the area that, for the purpose of the development plan, forms a particular settlement (e.g. a town). This might be used when forming or explaining policies, e.g. policies could reference that development within a settlement boundary may be preferred over development outside a settlement boundary.

Recent plans

The following tables contain plans published prior to 2004, or prepared under the pre-2004 approach and then published at a later date. The local authority will be in the process of replacing these plans with newer documents, but even where later plans are available some policies and designations from within the below plans may be 'saved' and still relevant. From these plans, we have found the following designations in your area.

Useful information

What is a planning application?

A planning application is a request for approval from your local authority for you to carry out some form of development or change to property or land. You apply to your local authority to obtain this permission, known as Planning Permission.

Is Planning Permission needed?

Most changes will require planning permission from your local authority, but some forms of development may fall within 'permitted development rights' and not require planning permission. The types of development allowed under these rights can depend on your local authority and additional factors such as whether the property is in a conservation area or national park. Common types of permitted development are small alterations and minor extensions to residential dwellings. Information about the types of development allowed under your permitted development rights is available from the Planning Portal (details below) or from your local planning authority (see the Contacts page).

If you are considering any development, it is advisable to contact your local planning authority to check if planning permission is required for the intended works. Your local planning authority may also have a useful duty planner service or provide pre-application advice, although there could be a charge for this.

Applying for Permission

If planning permission is required, an application is made to the local planning authority. The type of application and supporting information required will depend on the scale of works proposed.

Once an application has been made the local authority may notify relevant parties, such as immediate neighbours, and the application may be advertised locally for a consultation period. Public comments can then be made on the application for consideration by the local planning authority.

Planning Decisions

A planning officer will consider the application and any supporting information and make a recommendation for approval or refusal. Depending on the type of application the final decision may be made by the officer through 'delegated powers', or the information could be passed to a planning committee.

The local authority will explain the reasons for refusing any applications. The applicant could then choose to re-submit the application with amendments. The result can also be appealed through the planning inspectorate; however this can be a complicated and costly procedure and would not normally be undertaken without obtaining further professional guidance.

Consequently, where an application is listed in this report as refused it may later be granted on appeal. Therefore, if an application within this report concerns you, we would strongly advise you to find out more from your local planning authority.

Planning applications are usually decided within 8 weeks of the application date, although this can be extended to 13 weeks where the application is large or complex. Unless acted upon a planning permission will lapse after either 3 or 5 years, depending on whether it is an 'outline' or 'full' (sometimes called 'detail') application.

What are development plans

As well as managing development in your local area through the planning application system, your local authority will produce development plans. These will outline the desired approach to land use and development in the area. The plans will aim to address a wide range of environmental, economic and social needs with the overall aim of sustainable development.

Planning application decisions have to be made in accordance with the policies of the development plan, so these documents are important as they indicate what forms of development might be approved nearby in the years to come.

National guidelines are individually published by the English, Welsh and Scottish governments. These documents outline the government's view on development and planning policy. They will also provide the framework and requirements local authorities will consider to produce the policies for their area.

National legislation is important as this provides the overall strategy for development. Where a local authority local plan is judged to be out-of-date or insufficient national policy may supersede it or be a material consideration for any application.

What are Local Plans and Local development Frameworks

Local authorities will publish policies and proposals in their development plans.

Older development plans are often known as a Local Plan or Unitary Development Plan (UDP). After a change in planning legislation in 2004, English authorities started to produce their plans as a series of documents referred to as the Local Development Framework (LDF). An LDF will consist of a series of statutory documents, such as a Core Strategy and Proposals Map. A local authority may also produce a series of non-statutory supplementary planning documents (SPD's) that will provide guidance on specific development topics.

This series of documents may be produced gradually and while new documents are being drafted and approved some policies may be 'saved' from an earlier development plan. These will then be replaced as newer emerging documents are adopted. This means that in some areas older development plans may still be considered relevant alongside newer documents.

In Scotland and Wales Local Development Plans (LDP's) are gradually replacing any older Local Plans and UDP's.

As national legislation changes, local planning authorities may change their approach to creating development plans. For example, the introduction of the 'National Planning Policy Framework' (NPPF) in 2012 has meant that development plans in England are starting to be referred to as Local Plans again, and local authorities are being encouraged to only produce additional supplementary documents where absolutely required.

Neighbourhood Planning

In England, local communities are now being given an opportunity to shape and inform development plans for their area. Parish councils, town councils, or neighbourhood forums can develop a 'Neighbourhood Plan' to outline the community's aspirations. If approved these neighbourhood plans will then form part of the framework for the area and will be considered by the local planning authority for future planning decisions. There is currently no formal equivalent in Scotland and Wales, but local communities are encouraged to participate in discussions concerning local service delivery.

If you are interested in Neighbourhood Plans in your area, we recommend you contact your local authority for more information.
